Part 1 · Preguntas personales (~30 s c/u)

Tu rutina diaria

Tarea: Tell me about your daily routine. What do you usually do in the morning?

Respuesta modelo:

My mornings are usually pretty busy, to be honest. I tend to wake up around seven, and the first thing I do is make myself a strong coffee, because I'm not really a morning person. After a quick shower and breakfast, I cycle to work, which I find is a great way to wake up properly. I normally try to deal with my most difficult tasks first thing, while I'm still fresh. It's not the most exciting routine, but it works for me.

Tu tiempo libre

Tarea: What do you like doing in your free time?

Respuesta modelo:

Well, my free time is precious to me, so I try to make the most of it. I'm quite an active person, so I love hiking and playing tennis whenever I get the chance. Having said that, I also really value just relaxing at home, cooking a nice meal or getting lost in a good book. What I enjoy most, though, is spending time with friends; there's nothing better than a long dinner with good company. It's the perfect way to switch off after a busy week.

Tu ciudad

Tarea: Tell me about the town or city where you live.

Respuesta modelo:

I live in a medium-sized city in the north of Spain, and on the whole I'm really happy here. What I like most is that it offers the best of both worlds: it's lively enough to have plenty going on, but it's still small enough to feel friendly and relaxed. There's a great food scene and some lovely green spaces. If I had to find a downside, I'd say the weather can be a bit grey, but that's a small price to pay for such a comfortable quality of life.

Part 2 · Describir una foto (~45 s)

Gente en un parque

Tarea: Describe this photo. What can you see? What are the people doing?

Respuesta modelo:

This photo captures a group of young people enjoying a sunny day in a park, which suggests it's probably spring or summer. In the foreground, a few friends are sitting on the grass, chatting and laughing together, while one of them appears to be taking a photo on her phone. In the background, you can make out some tall trees and other people strolling around. The whole scene gives off a really relaxed, carefree atmosphere. I'd imagine they're making the most of a day off together.

Una comida en familia

Respuesta modelo:

What strikes me about this photo is the warm, family atmosphere it conveys. It shows several generations gathered around a large table at home, clearly enjoying a meal together. Judging by the amount of food, I'd say it's some kind of special occasion, perhaps a birthday or a family celebration. People are chatting and smiling, one woman is serving a dish, and a child seems to be laughing at something. It really captures one of those simple but meaningful moments that bring families together.

Part 3 · Comparar dos fotos (~45 s)

Ejercicio al aire libre vs gimnasio

Tarea: Compare these two photos. One shows people exercising outside and the other shows a gym. Which do you prefer?

Respuesta modelo:

Both photos show people keeping fit, but in very contrasting settings. The first one shows people running outdoors in a park, whereas the second one shows someone working out in a modern, well-equipped gym. The big advantage of exercising outside is that it's free, you get fresh air, and it tends to feel less like a chore. The gym, on the other hand, offers a wide range of equipment and lets you train whatever the weather. Personally, I'd lean towards exercising outdoors, mainly because I find being in nature far more motivating.

Ciudad vs campo

Tarea: Compare these two photos. One shows a big city and the other shows the countryside. Where would you prefer to live?

Respuesta modelo:

These two photos present a classic contrast: city life versus the countryside. The first one shows a busy city, full of tall buildings, traffic and energy, while the second one shows a peaceful rural landscape with green fields and mountains. Living in a city has clear advantages, such as better job opportunities and plenty to do, but it can also be stressful and expensive. The countryside, by contrast, offers peace and a slower pace of life, although it can feel a bit isolated. If I had to choose, I'd probably go for the countryside, as I increasingly value peace and quiet over constant activity.

Part 4 · Tema abstracto (1 min prep + ~2 min)Redes sociales

Tarea: Some people think social media is bad for young people. Others think it is useful. What is your opinion?

Respuesta modelo:

This is a topic with strong arguments on both sides, and I can see the appeal of each. On the positive side, social media has transformed the way we communicate. It allows us to stay in touch with people all over the world and gives ordinary people a voice they never had before. It can also be a powerful tool for education and even for small businesses. However, there are some real downsides that we can't ignore. Spending too long online has been linked to anxiety and poor sleep, especially among teenagers, and it's very easy for misinformation to spread. On top of that, people often compare themselves to others and end up feeling worse. All things considered, I don't think social media is good or bad in itself; it really comes down to how, and how much, we use it.

Aprender inglés

Tarea: Why do you think it is important to learn English today?

Respuesta modelo:

In my view, learning English has become more important than ever in today's connected world. First and foremost, English works as a global language, so it allows you to communicate with people from completely different countries and cultures. Secondly, it can make a huge difference professionally; many employers now see English as essential, so it can really open doors in your career. Beyond work, it's incredibly useful for travelling, and it gives you access to a vast amount of films, music and information online. Some people argue that translation apps will soon make all this unnecessary, but I'm not convinced; a machine simply can't replace a genuine human conversation. All in all, I'm firmly convinced that learning English is one of the most valuable investments anyone can make.
